Importance of Match Making

'Vivaha' or Marriage is one of the 16 Samskaras or religious conducts/rites prescribed by the ancient Hindu scriptures. It is considered the most important Sanskara as it marks the beginning of Grihastha Ashrama – the stage of householder. Hindu marriages are performed with great care and elaborate rituals, keeping in mind the compatibility of the bride and groom.

In Vedic Astrology, Kundli matching or Horoscope matching is one of the most important aspects before solemnizing a marriage. It involves careful examination of the birth charts of both the boy and the girl to determine their compatibility on various parameters.

The process of Kundli matching involves comparing the planetary positions in both horoscopes. The ancient sages developed the Ashtakoot (8 Koota) or Dashakoot (10 Koota) system to evaluate compatibility. These systems analyze various aspects of the couple's life including their mental compatibility, physical compatibility, financial prosperity, health, progeny, and longevity of the relationship.

A thorough analysis of the horoscopes helps identify potential problems and suggests remedies to overcome them. It also helps understand the nature and temperament of both partners, their family values, and their approach to life. This comprehensive analysis ensures a harmonious and blissful married life.

Match making also involves checking for specific doshas (afflictions) like Manglik Dosha, Nadi Dosha, and Rajju Dosha which are considered significant for marital happiness. If such doshas are present, appropriate remedies are suggested to mitigate their negative effects.

Kundli matching is an ancient and scientific method to ensure the success of married life.

What is Manglik Dosha?

Manglik Dosha occurs when Mars is placed in the 1st, 2nd, 4th, 7th, 8th, or 12th house of the birth chart. Also known as Kuja Dosha or Angaraka Dosha, it is believed to have adverse effects on married life.

Manglik Dosha Effect

1st House

Mars in the 1st house can make a person aggressive and dominant. This placement indicates possible conflicts in marriage due to temperament issues.

2nd House

Mars in the 2nd house affects family life and finances. The native may face obstacles in accumulating wealth or family harmony.

4th House

Mars in the 4th house affects domestic peace. The native may frequently change residences and may face disturbances in home environment.

7th House

Mars in the 7th house directly affects the spouse. This is considered the most significant placement for Manglik dosha, causing disputes with partner.

8th House

Mars in the 8th house affects longevity and inheritance. The native may face sudden changes and transformative events in married life.

12th House

Mars in the 12th house indicates expenditure and losses. It can lead to financial drain and possible separation if not remedied properly.

What is Dashakoot?

Dashakoot is a Vedic compatibility matching system that examines 10 aspects (Kootas) of a couple's horoscopes. Each Koota evaluates a specific dimension of compatibility. The total score is calculated out of 36 points. A score of 18 or above is generally considered acceptable for marriage, while 24 or more indicates excellent compatibility.

The ten kootas or Aspects of Dashakoota are as follows:

- Dina (Nakshatra): Dina Koota checks Nakshatra compatibility and indicates general health and well-being after marriage.
- Gan: Gana Koota represents the temperament — Deva (divine), Manushya (human), or Rakshasa (demon). It ensures mental compatibility.
- Yoni: Yoni Koota indicates physical and sexual compatibility between the couple. It is based on animal symbolism of Nakshatras.
- Rashi (Bhakoot): Rashi Koota (Bhakoot) indicates the influence of one partner's zodiac on the other. It checks for emotional compatibility.
- Rasyadhipati: Rasyadhipati Koota compares the planetary rulers of both partners' moon signs and checks for friendship between them.
- Rajju: Rajju Dosha checks the Nakshatra's position in the body classification (head, neck, waist, legs, feet). Same Rajju can cause harm.
- Vedha: Vedha checks for Nakshatra obstructions. Certain Nakshatras are mutually antagonistic and their pairing should be avoided.
- Vashya: Vashya Koota indicates mutual attraction and the power of control between the couple.
- Mahendra: Mahendra Koota ensures prosperity, well-being, and the blessing of children. It grants longevity to the relationship.
- Stree Deergha: Stree Deergha ensures the well-being and prosperity of the bride. It indicates happiness in married life.
- Deergha: Deergha Koota evaluates the overall longevity and sustainability of the marriage bond.

What is Rajju Dosha?

Rajju Dosha is one of the most important checks in Vedic matchmaking. The word 'Rajju' means 'rope' and it signifies the bond of marriage. The 27 Nakshatras are classified into five body parts — Head (Shira), Neck (Kantha), Navel (Udara), Waist (Kati), and Feet (Paada).

If both the bride and groom's Nakshatras fall in the same Rajju category, it is considered inauspicious. Specifically:

- Same Head Rajju — May cause death of the husband
- Same Neck Rajju — May cause death of the wife
- Same Navel Rajju — Loss of children
- Same Waist Rajju — Poverty and financial problems
- Same Feet Rajju — Wandering/constant travel

When Rajju Dosha is not present, the marriage bond is considered strong and long-lasting. The couple is expected to have a harmonious and stable relationship.

Rajju Dosha Analysis

&9

Present

Both Ashwini and Ashwini belong to the Paada Rajju group. When both Nakshatras fall in the same Rajju, it is considered inauspicious. Remedies like specific pujas and charitable acts are recommended to mitigate the effects.

Papasamyam Analysis

Papa (Dosha) Comparison is done to check the balance of malefic planetary influences in both horoscopes. The analysis considers malefic effects from the Ascendant (Lagna), Moon, and Venus. The malefic planets considered are Sun, Mars, Saturn, and Rahu (North Node).

If the total papa points of the male are greater than or equal to the female's, the match is considered favorable. An imbalance may lead to disharmony in married life.

Test Male - Papa Points
